Artificial Intelligence Notice

We may use artificial intelligence tools, including tools that incorporate AI, in order to provide services to its you. For example, we may use notetaking tools during client meetings to support its client service and regulatory obligations, including documenting discussions, identifying follow-up actions, and preparing meeting summaries. These notetaking tools use large language models (LLMs), a form of generative AI technology, to convert raw meeting content into structured outputs such as notes, action items, and draft communications. We obtain client consent before using any notetaking tools during meetings. With respect to information security, these artificial intelligence tools adhere to SOC 2 standards and employ modern security measures, including end-to-end encryption for data both in transit and at rest, as well as multi-factor authentication. In addition, the tools undergo regular security reviews, including SOC 2 Type II audits, independent third-party penetration testing, and ongoing software updates to maintain security and reliability. We do not input any client personal information into open artificial intelligence tools.

We will endeavor to ensure your personal information is kept accurate, complete, up to date, and relevant. You should notify us if any information changes. If personal information is not accurate, complete, or up to date, please notify us and we will take reasonable steps to ensure it is corrected. This Privacy Notice may change from time to time. Such changes shall be effective immediately upon notice. This Privacy Notice is for general guidance and does not constitute a contract or create legal rights and does not modify or amend any agreement we have with you.
